

Disrupting Racism and Eurocentrism in Research Methods and Practices
SPSP 2022 Virtual Workshop - Video Recording Here

Here is an outline for today's workshop with approximate times (PST) and some handy links!

9:00am	Welcome
9:05am	In Conversation with Colin Wayne Leach Pull up a chair and join us for a conversation about what's changing in the field, what obstacles we need to tackle, and what authors and reviewers can do to disrupt racism in publication practices.
9:50am	Break
10:00am	Mini-Module 1: White-Centering Research Practices and How to Disrupt Them Maria Garay and Jessica Remedios give us a crash course on how to recognize white-centering research practices and offer specific tools for disrupting them. Take-Home Exercise : Take a few minutes to work through this exercise after today's workshop, or bring it back to your lab, journal club, or accountability group to talk about together!
10:15am	Mini-Module 2: Diversifying Your References Jovani Azpeitia, Ella Lombard, Terrence Pope, and Sapna Cheryan share the tool they developed in their lab for successfully diversifying their citation practices. Activity and Resource: Citation Audit Template
10:45am	Mini-Module 3: How to Begin Writing a Positionality Statement More journals (like PSPR) are starting to require positionality statements. How do you write one and what makes it effective? Crystal Steltenpohl, Sa-kiera Hudson, and Kat Klement are here to get us started. Activity and Resource: Strengthening Our Reflexes
11:15am	Questions and Discussion
11:30am	End

Companion Workshop

Today's workshop is incomplete and US-centric! Check out Rim Saab and Lynne Cooper's "How to Establish International and Cross-Cultural Research Collaborations," available to you as a recorded deep dive workshop through the online convention platform, for essential material that we didn't cover here.
